are in high demand. If the space is large enough, the shower door can even be eliminated so you can walk right into the shower, again adding to a feeling of spaciousness.

Shower Systems

The single showerhead has been replaced by elegant spa fittings and fixtures. Showerheads are larger and there can be more than one. They are accompanied by rain showerheads, body sprays, hand showers on adjustable bars are all visible to the room. Polished chrome, nickel and stainless steel are very popular materials being used today. Thermostatic valves, remote controls and programmable technology are ultimate luxury features.

Agalite and Guardian Industries have partnered to manufacture, design and distribute Guardian's low maintenance glass products, including ShowerGuard, an innovative glass that is easier to clean than standard glass and maintains its original, like-new appearance over time. www.showerguardglass.com.

Custom tiled with Nova Blue and Honed Calacatta marble, this spacious shower includes a large bench seat that rests below a stylish arched window that invites natural light throughout this master bath. Bath design by Cabinetwerks Design Studio, Lake Bluff, IL. Photography: Linda Oyama Bryan.

This shower delivers accessible Universal Design. Three showerheads, one an adjustable hand held on a bar, all controlled separately, deliver maximum shower capability. Endless hot water via a tankless water heater was included. Instead of a built in seat, the clients opted for blocking in the walls to easily attach a future seat and grab bars. This Lime Ice guest bath (above) pops with vibrant, playful color. Led lights illuminate the vanity from within. Colorful sconces and a custom blend glass tile backsplash add more interest and personality. Definitely not your typical guest bath.

Treat your guests to a stimulating, yet restful space. The modern, minimalist tub (left) offers a relaxing soak. Rinse off with the chrome hand shower.

A captivating space was created through the selection of unique materials and the incorporation of innovative technology that allows many of this powder room's functional elements to be concealed. The limestone wash plane, with appropriate slanting and horizontal ledges on either side, creates the perfect catch for water, which flattens and disappears without benefit of a visible drain (drain is hidden under an access panel). A wall-hung faucet mounted in the mirror adds to the room's illusions, along with the sliding doors with no visible track and completely flush when closed to conceal the necessary storage for supplies. Recycled glass mosaic tiles, aged copper metallic colored porcelain floor tiles, and satin nickel finishes create the perfect balance of sophistication in color.

PRODUCTS USED:

Thomas Custom Woodworking, Shoji rift-cut white oak doors, natural cherry with rice paper; Sugatsone sliding door hardware; Hafele pulls; Omvivo Washplane® sink in Sand limestone; Schluter Rema access panel (for drain) in tile; Dornbracht wall-hung satin nickel faucet; Oceanside Tile & Glass Natural Stone Design Gallery backsplash; Kohler Gabrielle Comfort toilet; Walker Zanger tile floor in Copper; Tech Cosmo lighting.
